The Fund invests in an Asia Pacific and Pacific rim portfolio of REITs.

The investors may gain from the appreciation of Unit price as a result of the increase in value of the underlying and/or accrual of interest earned. However, investment involves risk. KEY RISKS

6. What are the key risks associated with this product?

General risks
Market Risk This is the risk when the value/demand of a stock, share, bonds or any other security may be reduced due to market activity. The volatility of the market activity can be caused by factors such as inflation, changes in government policies, interest rates and exchange rates, therefore, as market conditions change, the performance of units may fall as well as rise, and income produced by a fund may also fluctuate. Accordingly, the Manager cannot guarantee any distribution or investment returns to the Unit Holders. However, by investing in a wide range of securities, the Manager attempts to balance this risk with the investment rewards that can be made. In assessing market risk, the Manager will keep a close watch on the financial markets to pick up potential adverse movements in these markets.
Particular Stock Risk Any irregular fluctuation of a particular stock may affect the unit price as the price of units may also fluctuate. This impact is reduced if a fund invests in a wide portfolio of investments.

Country Risk The prices of securities may also be affected by the political and economic conditions of the country in which the securities are issued. However, investment can be diversified across markets/countries which will assist in mitigating the risk that may arise.
Currency Risk This risk is associated with investments denominated in foreign currencies. The net asset value of a unit trust fund will be lower if the foreign currency in which the securities are denominated moves unfavourably against RM. The management company can hedge the currency in mitigation of adverse currency movements.
Loan/Financing Risk If you obtain a loan/financing to finance your purchase of units, you need to understand that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a) Borrowing/financing increases the possibility for gains as well as losses; and b) If the value of your investment falls below a certain level, you may be asked by the financial institution to top up the collateral or reduce the outstanding loan/financing amount to the required level. Investors are encouraged to invest money from their savings rather than borrowing money/seek financing from the financial institutions.
Interest Rate Risk This risk refers to the effect of interest rate changes on the market value of a bond portfolio. In the event of rising interest rates, prices of fixed income securities will decrease and vice versa, which will then have an impact on the net asset value or unit prices of the fund. Meanwhile, debt securities with longer maturity and lower coupon rate are more sensitive to interest rate changes. This will be mitigated via the management of the duration structure of the fixed income portfolio.
Credit/Default Risk This risk refers to the possibility that the issuer or financial institution of a securities, instruments or deposit placements will not be able to make timely payments of interest or principal repayment/payment on the maturity date. This may lead to a default in the payment of principal and interest and ultimately a reduction in the value of unit trust funds. This risk is managed by the internal policy of setting a ceiling or limit to the exposure and also the constant process of credit evaluation to mitigate such risk to an acceptable level.
Non-Compliance Risk There is a risk that the management company may not adhere to the investment mandate of the fund, the deed and prospectus of the fund, the Guidelines, the internal policies and the relevant laws. As a result, the fund may not be able to achieve its investment objectives. The aforesaid may result in the management company being penalised by the relevant authority, for example, a suspension of the management company's license. In order to mitigate this risk, the management company must have stringent internal controls and ensures that compliance monitoring processes are undertaken.
Issuer Risk Any large fluctuations in the prices of fixed income securities of any of the companies that the fund owns may cause the net asset value or prices of units to change too. Such fluctuations can be caused by changes in government laws in the industry in which the company belongs, entry of new competitors or changes in business directions/strategies/operations. It must be noted that it is not possible to anticipate such risk all the time.
Management Company Risk There is a risk that the management company may not adhere to the investment mandate of the fund. With close monitoring by the investment committee, back office system being incorporated with limits and controls, and regular reporting to the senior management team, the management company is able to mitigate such risk. The trustee will also have an oversight on the management company pursuant to the Guidelines. Poor management of the fund may also jeopardise the investment of unit holders through the loss of their capital invested in the fund.
Inflation Risk Purchasing power is reduced by inflation and if the rate of inflation is constantly higher than the rate of returns on investments, the real rate of your investment return (i.e. the returns after adjusting for inflation) could be negative despite the fund showing a positive return. Hence, investors should consider the potential real rate of returns prior to investing.
Liquidity Risk Liquidity refers to the ease of liquidating an investment of a security at or near its fair value depending on the investment's volume traded in the market. A unit trust fund holding many securities that are illiquid, or difficult to dispose of, will have its value depressed when it has to sell these securities at a discount to their fair value. Hence, this will negatively impact the NAV of the Fund and the investments of the Unit Holders. This risk is mitigated through a systematic security selection process and portfolio diversification.
Operational Risk The performance of a unit trust fund's investment depends upon the proper functioning of both internal and external systems and processes. A market disruption event or system interruption can also impact processes when there is an interruption in the flow of information needed for making qualified decisions in managing the unit trust fund. These disruptions may impact the performance of the unit trust fund, the settlement of trades in the unit trust fund and may also affect the investor's transactions with the unit trust fund. The Manager has to put in place internal controls to manage some of these disruptions such as business continuity plans. However, investors should note that not all circumstances can be prepared for nor anticipated. In such circumstances, the Manager will take appropriate measures to safeguard the Unit Holders' interests.
Possibility of Loss The prices of units in a unit trust fund and the income from the fund may go down as well as up due to price fluctuations of the securities that the fund invests in. A possible loss of all or part of the principal invested cannot be ruled out. No guarantee is given, express or implied, that investors will receive any distribution or returns on their investments, or that investors will get back their initial amount invested in full. The Manager endeavours to mitigate this risk by employing a systemic investment process that is incorporated with a risk management process.

Investment Manager Risk The performance of any unit trust fund depends on the experience, knowledge and expertise of the investment manager. The risk of the fund underperforming the benchmark may be a result of wrong forecasts or human negligence. Any error in the investment techniques and processes adopted by the manager may have an adverse impact on the fund's performance. The investment manager seeks to mitigate this risk by implementing a structured investment process based on the investment policy and strategy of the unit trust fund and systematic operational procedures along with stringent internal controls.
Specific risks of the Fund
Emerging Market Risk The Fund may be invested in certain smaller and emerging markets, which exhibits lower levels of economic and/or capital market development, limitations due to foreign investment restrictions, wide dealing spreads, restricted opening hours of stock exchanges and a narrow range of investors. Trading volume and market capitalisation may be lower than in more developed stock markets. This may result in a lower degree of liquidity for the Fund's investments. This risk however may be reduced when there is a low correlation between the activities of those markets and/or by the diversification of investments within the Fund.
Currency Risk The NAV of the Fund may be affected favorably or unfavorably by exchange control regulations or changes in exchange rates between RM and the relevant foreign currencies if the Fund invests in foreign currencies or assets denominated in foreign currencies, the Fund is exposed to foreign currencies risks. Fluctuations in exchange rates will affect the value of the Fund's foreign investments when converted into the local currency and subsequently the value of Unit Holders' investments.
Sectoral Risk The Fund invests mainly in the real estate sector. As a result, the Fund may be more vulnerable to factors associated with the sector it is invested in. Any material changes associated with the real estate sector may have an adverse impact on the NAV of the Fund which in turn will affect the performance of the Fund.
Taxation Risk The local authorities may impose withholding tax, levies, duties or other charges on property and REITs. Hence, any changes in property taxation law may affect the property taxes, proceeds from the sale of property, receipts of dividends and other income. These changes may in turn have an adverse impact on the performance of the Fund.
Foreign Market Settlement Risk Trading and settlement practices of some of the markets in which the Fund may invest may not be the same as those in more developed markets, and this may increase settlement risk and/or result in delays in realising investments made by the Fund. In addition, the Fund will be exposed to credit risk on parties with whom it trades and will bear the risk of settlement default. The Trustee will be instructed by the Manager to settle the trade (buy or sell transactions) where the Manager believes and the Trustee agrees that this form of settlement is regulated under the Eligible Markets. Investors should be aware that this may result in a loss to the Fund if the trade fails to settle, and the Trustee will not be liable to the Fund for such loss. The Trustee considers that in order to discharge its responsibility under the regulations of the Eligible Markets, the Trustee must exercise care and diligence in the selection of settlement practices. The Trustee must maintain an adequate level of supervision and make appropriate enquiries, periodically to confirm that such practices continue to be competently reliable.
Distribution Out of Capital Risk Distribution may be paid out of capital when the realised gains or realised income of the Fund is insufficient to pay a distribution. Unit Holders should note that the payment of distribution out of capital represents a return or withdrawal of part of the amount from any capital gains attributable to the original investment. Such distribution may result in an immediate decrease in the NAV per Unit of the Fund and the capital of the Fund which is available for investment in the future. As a result, capital growth may be reduced and a high distribution yield from distribution out of capital does not imply a positive or high return on Unit Holders' total investments.

Note:

Please refer to sections related to "risk factors" in the Master Prospectus for further information.

Please be advised that if an investor invests in Units through an IUTA which adopts the nominee system of ownership, the investor would not be considered to be a Unit Holder under the Deed and the investor may consequently not have all the rights ordinarily exercisable by a Unit Holder (for example, the right to call for a Unit Holder's meeting and to vote thereat and the right to have the investor's particulars appearing in the register of Unit Holders of the Fund).
